First regiment parade again?" This is indeed a momentous question, and one in which much interest is felt by the members friends. It is feared, however, unless something is done by our City Fathers towards encouraging the "soldier boys" to maintain their organization that the First regiment has seen its palmiest days, and that it will drag out a miserable existence to the end of the five years for which, under the State law, a majority of its members are enlisted, and then be one of the things of the past. LOCAL MATTERS.

A BOLD ROBBERY AND PROMPT ARREST OF THE ROBBERS. - About 12 or 1 o'clock Friday | table: night Mr. John Beattie, agent of "The Southern Association for the Benefit of the Widows and Orphans of the Southern States," upon returning to his room, which is on the third floor of the building at the northeast corner of Main and Thirteenth streets, was surprised to find the light burning. He had turned the light off when he went away some hours before, and upon entering the cost, street. Thankful for ing. He had turned the light off when he the full development of our industrial rewas soon satisfied that it had been robbed. The whole of the floor is occupied by Mr. Beattie and the offices of the Association. The passage-door had been easily forced, and the sleeping apartment of Mr. Beattie was opened with a hatchet, and then the wardrobe of Mr. Beattie entered in like manner, and a tin-box, in which was several hundred dollars in notes, and a wooden-box containing a great number of nickels, were carried off. The hatchet employed was one kept in the coal-box at in the merchants' license-tax case; therefore the head of the steps, and was used for split-ting kindling wood. From this circumstance and other things connected with the burglary Mr. Beattie was led to suspect Charles Bowler, a young man about twenty years of age, who had been in his employ up to Christmas, and had been discharged for misconduct. The facts were reported to > Lipscomb some $60 or $70 more. They made a full confession. The box containing the notes they threw into the river from Mayo's bridge. They then divided, and went to the Theatre Comique and spent some few dolhars. When arrested they were at their respective residences abed. The accused had an examination before the Police Justice Saturday morning. Mr. Beattie was unable to tell exactly how much he had lost, as he had not balanced his cash ac-

SENT ON TO THE HUSTINGS COURT .- Mr. C. Saturday morning charged with assaulting a plan herewith submitted. N. Burruss was before the Police Court Mr. John Hume and pushing him off the steps of William Scott's restaurant, thereby breaking one of his legs. The affair occurred on the 29th of September last, but was not lion. examined sooner on account of the inability of Mr. Hume to appear in court. The evidence showed that Hume was in a drinky condition, and a difficulty had occurred between him and Mr. Burruss, and while Scott was persuading Hume to leave the premises, and Hume and Scott were standing at the door, Burruss gave Scott a shove. This carried over both Scott and Hume. The fall of the borrower. To be issued on mortwas between four and five feet, and the leg gages on real estate at one-third of its of Hume was broken just above the ankle. Scott fell upon Hume, and was not hurt. While it appeared that Mr. Burruss had great provocation from Hume, and it was evident he had no intention of doing him
